Bespoke Tape to DVD Transfer

The main reasons I would recommend transferring your important tapes to DVD are:

- 1. convenience – a play-anywhere format, where you can navigate by chapters or menus;*
- 2. as a back-up for cherished tapes to avoid the risk of total loss as a result of poor storage, tape tangles or breakages, etc.*

Your Home Videos, Holiday Videos, Family Weddings and Occasions Tapes transferred to DVD.

Many of our important memories are stacked away in boxes on a medium that is obsolete and deteriorating – this material will be meaningful for you now, and who knows, for future generations also. Some of it might even feature on a future edition of “Who Do You Think You Are”!

Corporate or Public Service Tapes transferred to DVD – fully Confidential service.

Over the years many companies and public bodies have built up a collection of their own videotapes of projects, training events and corporate promotions. Because of their relative physical bulk, these tapes take up a lot of storage room, and the way things are going are impractical for future use. With DVD wherever you take it you are likely to be able to play it – in a DVD player, a laptop, or a desktop computer, and this is an essential consideration for anyone going to a business meeting. Otherwise you have to check that the venue has a reliable VHS deck and that somebody knows how to connect it up. You can also have a copy on a portable hard drive.

Why Should I Choose a Bespoke Service?

Many companies’ DVD transfer is based on a crude machine to machine copy. With our service the material is captured to hard disk and any necessary corrections can be made at the time, and we can also add titles, chapter-points and menus, or even undertake more involved editing.
